Vacation Calls For Adjustment

With school out, family routine is altered. Smaller children are up and active without parental urging. Teenagers may not be the early risers, but they will find plenty to do once they get going. But what about the activity of the younger children? The excitement of vacation will burst into a variety of play activity for some time.

Parents have plans, too. At times these plans are not thought out. Miss Mary Todd, Extension Home Economics Ager, says after school is finished there should be ample time for the children to unwind. There are all sorts of activities they want to experience. Give them that opportunity. Let them be free from anything organized. Some children do not function well unless their time is planned for them. But most children will appreciate a respite from structured and scheduled living.

Miss Todd's suggests parents reserve some of those planned excursions until later in the summer. That is when the excitement of vacation is over and children begin to look for things to do then parental suggestions can be of value. There is a side benefit to this. In the latter part of the summer it is wise to work back into a schedule. Thus, when school begins again a routine is established. But that freedom just now calls for much flexibility for mother especially. The children will be around in the daytime. If they talk, be sure to listen and then respond. Give them reasonable chores to do. Make necessary adjustments to your routine for the child's well-being. But don't forget to have the limits: these are for his well-being, too.

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT
Southern States Industrial Council

"If all churches throughout the world could work together for peace with freedom, it would be a splendid thing. The ideal of our civilization for almost 2,000 years has been peace on earth, good will towards men. Unfortunately, churches have not yet found a worthwhile instrument for promoting the only kind of peace that is meaningful—peace with freedom."

Certainly, the World Council of Churches, which recently completed its Fourth Assembly at Uppsala, Sweden, is not the desired instrument. Instead of promoting the cause of freedom, the WCC gave aid and comfort—and supplied useful propaganda—to the forces of tyranny in the world today, forces that often deceitfully describe themselves as "peace" forces.

For example, the World Council of Churches called for an immediate, unconditional end to the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam. But it didn't demand that the North Vietnamese Communist regime stop its campaign of aggression and terrorization against the South. That the WCC would take the side of the Hanoi regime that is guilty of the most terrible atrocities, including beatings and the burning of prisoners—as revealed following the allied recapture of the historic city of Hue—gives insight into the real character of a body that falsely describes itself as a voice of conscience. Only a conscienceless organization would lend itself to the political goals of Ho Chi Minh and his henchmen.

The WCC statement against U.S. bombing was not the only indication of the organization's bias in favor of revolutionary aggression. One speaker from India urged the delegates to the Assembly to accept the idea of disorder and strife as a normal part of change in our times. The Assembly also gave a platform to the American radical, novelist James Baldwin, who spoke of the "churchmen" in praise of Stokely Carmichael, the Black Power advocate and Castro admirer who specializes in incendiary threats against American society. When Baldwin finished his hymn of praise of Carmichael, the delegates to the Council applauded.

Finally, the WCC came to the aid of the four Americans, including the chaplain of Yale University, the Rev. William Scofield Coffin, who were convicted in a federal court of conspiring to influence young Americans to violate the draft laws. The World Council of Churches endorsed the principle of selective objection to "particular" wars, which is the principle upheld by Rev. Coffin and his co-conspirators.

Neither the United States nor any other free republic could long endure if each citizen decided whether or not he wanted to support the wars in which his country engaged. As the old saying goes, all good men should come to the aid of their country in time of trouble.

If selective participation in wars were permitted, the cowardly and the greedy would never render service to their country. They would prefer to sit home in safety or seek ways of prospering while others faced the dangers of the battlefield and devoted months and years of their life to national survival. The burden of defending a society must fall equally on all, except as where infirmity or extreme hardship applies. The laws of the United States clearly recognize special circumstances. The laws even provide for those who have a true conscientious objection to fighting of any sort at any time. But injustice would be done to all brave and loyal citizens if the fearful or the cynical were exempted from service to their nation and fellow countrymen.

It is interesting, in terms of WCC declaration favoring "selective" objection to war was issued from a meeting place in Sweden. The Swedes spend much time criticizing the United States for its defense of freedom in South Vietnam and attacking Rhodesia and South Africa on the ground of their domestic policies. Yet the Swedes sat in World War II, selling war material to the Nazis while their neighborly neighbors—the Norwegians and the Danes—were under Hitler's iron rule. Truly, to lecture anybody on what is right would be a mistake to treat the World Council of Churches as the voice of organized religion. For years, the WCC has been a sounding board for Western attempts to suppress the anti-American and anti-Western opinion. It has encouraged the same revolutionary forces and struggles that were in the hands of the Soviet Union and Red China. It has condemned all Western attempts to suppress the same forces against communist expansionism.

The danger is that innocent churchmen will be duped into believing that WCC speaks for Christians everywhere. It is important, therefore, that WCC's actions be seen in political perspective.

Uncle Dan from Doolittle Says

Dear Mister Editor:

While their candidates running for President was debating politics, the folks at the country store Saturday night was debating the issues. For instance, Zeke Grubb came out strong at the opening of the session in favor of giving the vote to 18-year-olds. He said the situation was getting desperate and we had to make a move to get the Government out of the hands of the politicians and television networks.

Ed Doolittle was again with Zeke, said he had said a survey of 64 per cent of the people was in favor of letting 18-year-olds vote. He was of the opinion that the young'un took over and they would elect their own President and would have to march when they captured a university it would be like a farmer stealing his own chickens.

Clem Webster of the Great Society reported he had taken note where President Johnson was in favor of letting the young'un vote and he didn't like to be a sign of a decision of the President but it would be a little unsettling to him for the country to have a bunch of 25 year old ex-Prisoners running around.

Bug Hookum butted in to say being a little unsettled over matters didn't bother him no more, that he stayed a little unsettled about everything. For instance, right now he was unsettled over his old lady not having any vegetable garden. But they were who was claiming she could buy quick freeze items at the store cheaper than she could raise 'em and that they had 'em nobody working a garden now but city folks that was doing it for the exercise.

Ed said he had been married 49 years and he had long since got gitting unsettled about his old lady, but they was a heap of things that was keeping him a little off balance. For instance, Zeke said he didn't recognize them but they was any such country as Red China but he had saw where the Red Chinese would have Chinese nuclear bomb by 1972 and it would be mighty unsettling to get the exercise.

Zeke allowed as how it ain't even there.

Zeke got allowed as how if your jaw got swollen up you better recognize you got a bad tooth and go see the dentist and he was on the map he'd know from which direction we was gitting blowed up.

The fellow was about even denied, Mister Editor, on recommending Red China but they was all agreed it took a heap of jumping and dodging these days to keep from going to the hospital.

You can't get around the facts, Mister Editor, and a Washington column writer had the fingers to show the biggest TV advertiser in 1967 was a headline remedy.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

THE CUBA THREAT

Thanks to a misguided U. S. foreign policy, the Kremlin has gained a privileged sanctuary in the Caribbean from which to launch attacks throughout the Hemisphere. Most alarming of all, Cuba has become a staging area, headquarters and source of supply for the revolutionary U. S. black power movement. "Don't worry," proclaimed a satiric bumper sticker during the last Presidential campaign, "they're still 90 miles away." But they're getting closer all the time.

Secure in their privileged sanctuary, the Cuban Reds, like their Viet Cong comrades, are spreading subversion, destruction and death.

The U. S. mainland has become the latest, and most alarming, theater of operations. Leader of so-called student and civil rights groups like Mark Rudd and Stokely Carmichael have gone to Cuba for aid and comfort. (Carmichael also is an honorary member of the Latin American Solidarity Organization, Havana-based, subversive group). In January, H. Rap Brown took sanctuary for six hours inside the Cuban Mission to the United Nations when policemen sought to arrest him.

Despite open provocation and aggression, the United States clings to its policy of appeasement. Indeed, the lame-duck Administration still quacks hopelessly of building bridges between East and West and lowering the Nation's missile guard. Behind the curtain of silence, however, lie one country's misery and another's shame. Both cry out for a day of reckoning.—Baron's.

THE HOPE OF YOUTH

In recent months and years, activities of young people all over the world have not only made newspaper headlines but have caused governments and educational crises. These activities have led some to conclude, as some always have, that the younger generations is going to get the two gun treatment.

What is sometimes overlooked is the fact that five per cent of the young people make ninety-five per cent of the noise. Nor is it the case that the vast majority of the young people are misfits. In fact, the vast majority of young people are well-behaved and good citizens. They are certain to accomplish much, and they have advantages no other generation had. Such as television and rapid means of transportation and communication and a higher standard of living than any generation before them enjoyed.

VORSTER'S SIDE

Prime Minister John Vorster of South Africa was recently extensively interviewed by a correspondent for an American magazine. Since the State Department has condemned South African domestic policies and since the United Nations has spoken out in opposition to apartheid, Vorster's answer is of interest, whether one agrees or disagrees.

The first point the Prime Minister made was that the separate development of four racial communities was desired by each, and that the leaders of each community in South Africa say so, and that these communities have experienced separate development, by choice, for hundreds of years. In each, he added, the principle of one man one vote is accepted as the goal, each controlling his own territory or homeland.

And the Prime Minister states to point out that whites in South Africa did not take most of their land from the native centuries back. The major part of (to them) native land was inhabited by bushmen and Hot-tentots, now practically extinct. The Bantu (Negro) came down from the northwest and the whites came up from the south, to meet.

The Prime Minister says despite moralistic protests from people on the outside there is practically no friction or racial trouble in South Africa today. He believes much credit for this lies in the fact that South Africa outlawed Communist agitators ears ago. The Prime Minister says he would take advice from Americans on the racial issue if American leaders would help their problems. He invites inspection of his country, admitting things are not perfect, but in the belief that the country can "stand inspection."

On stability and separation, he says: "We have the policy of separate development not because of fear or hatred or any other motive, but because it has always been accepted, and it is accepted today, that each group has the right to maintain its identity." In view of the fact that South Africa is by far the strongest and most stable African country and anti-Communism has always been currently helping many other African states, one cannot easily brush aside all of the Prime Minister's arguments. Certainly he has a right to be heard when Washington is waging economic warfare against his country while extending aid to a number of Communist countries.

EYESORE OF THE WEEK

GROW GRASS GROW, AND HELP US HIDE.
AN EYESORE THAT WE HAVE SPIED.

By Warren Sattler

There's just five hundred more acres of grass to be mowed before the season is over.

Too Late to Classify

Guns don't kill people. People kill people. This is a fact that a lot of hysterical people seem to have lost sight of. All the gun laws on the books would not have prevented the assassination of Bobby Kennedy. Why? Because the State of California had a dozen laws against firearms, all of which were broken by the killer.

If laws were the answer Kennedy would be alive today as would his brother and Martin Luther King and hundreds of other law-abiding citizens killed in the hands of criminals and unbalanced individuals.

Laws are not worth the paper they are written on if they are not enforced and most of our present gun laws are not enforced. Why? Because the police are not trained to enforce them. They are not trained to search for guns. They are not trained to search for criminals. They are not trained to search for the truth.

What does the Bible say about the matter of truthfulness? The commandment, "Thou shalt not bear false witness," seems to be pretty clear. Jesus was even more explicit when he declared, "The devil is a liar and the father of it."

Twisting the Truth

What will be the fate of those who twist the truth to suit their purposes? The Bible is clear about that.

Lies are classed with some of the most heinous sins in the law of God. The Bible is clear about that.

Lies are classed with some of the most heinous sins in the law of God. The Bible is clear about that.

Heart Association Of P.B. County Gives Miami Scientists $10,000

The open-heart surgical patient is wheeled into the recovery room under heavy sedation. Tracheal tubes have been inserted to help him breathe. The incision is being constantly drained through another tube. Often he wears a respirator to force oxygen into his lungs. Then, too, his heart is being monitored.

This is the patient. Today a measuring device, developed with Heart Fund money from Palm Beach County, is helping him to rest more comfortably and safely. "Removal of the respiratory tubes at the earliest possible time will not only make the patient more comfortable, but he will actually heal faster. The body's natural healing processes are more effective than anything man can devise. The use of a respirator when the body does not need it, may actually harm the patient," said Dr. Marvin A. Sackner, director of the pulmonary laboratory at Mt. Sinai Hospital, Miami Beach.

He has been trying to find a way to easily measure the respiratory demands of the sedated patient without the use of painful or cumbersome diagnostic techniques.

The result of his research is an electro-mechanical device that takes the guesswork out of determining how much oxygen is needed and for how long.

AVOID PARTY BLOOPERS

Whether your next party is large or small - depends on friends and things, and on your ability to solve some of the problems that sometimes make it a strain to entertain. Charlotte Adams, whose book, Heavenly Party Guide contains many helpful hints, discusses some common party bloopers and ways to control them:

1. Too many requests for leftovers food are signs that your party planning was off somewhere. Of course, you can't please everyone, but you'll come closer to pleasing them by following these rules-of-thumb: Keep refreshments simple, ample and high in quality. There's no need to tempt the liquor spectrum. You've done your duty by guests if you provide the mixers for Martinis and two or three other cocktail stand-bys. 2. A nervous, frazzled hostess is a bad thing. The secret is to have a way of making everyone feel like one. The secret is to have a way of making everyone feel like one. The secret is to have a way of making everyone feel like one. Make sure all planning preparation is out of the way before guests arrive. You won't be an expert to serve with a professional have gone home.

Dr. Sackner's device measures the stiffness of the chest, the resistance to the air passing through the breathing passages, how well the lung capillaries are functioning, and if there are any "dead" spaces inside the lung. If this is the case, the device advises the surgeon whether or not it is necessary to re-open the chest to remove the clots.

Interest May Increase For Bonds - Shares

The interest increase for United States Savings Bonds and Freedom Shares is expected to lead to stimulated sales of the bonds and notes according to Jerry Thomas, Volunteer County Chairman of the Savings Bonds committee.

The interest boost, effective June 1, raised the interest rate on Series "E" and "H" Savings Bonds from 4.15% to 4.25%. Interest on Freedom Shares (U. S. Savings Notes) went from 4.74% to 4.75% compounded semi-annually when held to maturity. With both instruments the increase was to the full legal limit.

Thomas also pointed out that Freedom Shares may now be purchased across the counter from qualified issuing agents such as banks and savings and loan associations. They still must be bought in combination with the Series "E" Bond in amounts equal to or less than the Series "E" purchase.

Attends Jaycees Nat'l. Workshop

TULSA, Oklahoma — Milt McKay of the Belle Glade Jaycees was among national directors of The United States Jaycees who attended an orientation workshop here at the organization's headquarters this past weekend.

The directors were briefed on how state and local Jaycees can best be managed by the organization under the guidance of key leaders, and discussed their individual needs in connection with the Jaycees Executive Committee, governing body of the organization, and the headquarters staff.

U. S. Jaycees President Wendell E. Smith recommended the directors for their continued enthusiasm and charged the group to excel in all endeavors during the coming twelve months. Smith was recently elected as leader of the 300,000-member individual development organization.

The directors will return here to complete Jaycees programming and select a site for the organization's 1972 annual meeting.

Convention excitement is in the air as the delegates to the Republican National Convention arrive this week in Miami. Spirit of workers can be seen on the streets of Miami Beach passing out bumper strips with the name of the Presidential hopefuls — Nelson Rockefeller for President, Richard Nixon for President, Pooh for President?

For many electors the name Pooh has an unfamiliar ring. For Miami youngsters, Winnie the Pooh is one of two candidates running for the office of President. Pooh's opponent is Rodney the Rottenwolf. A unique feature of the C-34 cart is the chain manifold design. Bolted connections attach the chain manifold up to upright supports which can be connected to either side. This enables the cart to function equally well with either right hand or left hand unloading equipment.

Recommended power to move the fully loaded C-34 cart is supplied by an Allis-Chalmers 21 tractor, tractor-trail. Also shown is the C-34's two-wheel configuration, utilizing Good-year 18.4 x 24 Traction Super Grip 10 ply tires. Heavy-duty axle attached to the cart is adjustable in 4", 8" and 12" increments behind the centerline of the cart to provide maximum stability weight transfer and training characteristics.

INSPECCION DE CARROS

No se olvide de inspeccionar en este mes de Agosto, los carros con Chapas terminando en 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, y 9.

Los carros con chapas terminando en 4 y 5, ya son vendidos para su inspeccion, y deben inspeccionarse lo antes posible. Hay multa de $30.00 por primera ofensa, y de $500.00 por la segunda, o mas. Esta multa es aplicada por el Highway Patrol por el Motor Vehicle Inspection Station, así que vaya a inspeccionarse antes que lo multe la policia por la carretera.

Las chapas terminando 6 y 7 tienen una extension de 30 días hasta el final de Agosto, para inspeccionarse. No espere hasta el final de mes porque la cola de espera en la ultima semana es el doble de larga.

Debe llevar la Circulacion de la Maquina, el Tax Registration en la mano, y $1.75 al contado (no se aceptan cheques).

La inspeccion cubre: los frenos, las luces, el claxon, luces intermitentes, luces de frenar, luces traseras, gomas, limpiaparabrisas.

Si el vehiculo no pasa la inspeccion tiene una semana para arreglarla. Si se demora mas de la semana tiene que pagar $1.75 de nuevo y pasar otra inspeccion.

Tenga esto en mente porque solamente uno de cada cinco carros pasa en la primera inspeccion.

2. Conocer el camino desde su casa hasta el colegio.

3. Lavarse los dientes en el momento apropiado.

4. Saber comer variedad de alimentos.

6. Que trabaje y juegue bien con otros niños.

7. Que guarde sus pertenencias bien dobladas y de buen modo.

8. Que sepa cruzar las calles con seguridad.

9. Usar el nombre correcto de las cosas cuando hable (no como "hecho").

10. Que sepa su nombre completo, direccion y telefono.
